Book By A Colored Man.

The Rev. Robert Anderson, an aged colored man from Georgia, is in town selling a book written by himself, called the "Anderson Surpriser." The book deals with the relations of the races from the point of view of the old time darkey, and is full of good common sense upon the question with which it deals. It vindicates the southern whites from many of the charges brought by the northern press.

The Reverent Anderson is 78 years old and is dependent upon sales of the book for a livelihood. He bought himself ten years before the war and has been in the ministry for 40 years.

Many of the most prominent citizens have already purchased the book.

The Rev. Anderson will preach at Zion Church to-morrow at 3 o'clock p. m. on the "Millenial Glory of Christ" and at night on "Dives and Lazarus."

TWO BUSHY TAILS.

The Hunters Return—Gov. Atkinson, of Georgia, Was a Camp Guest.

The fox hunters returned from their hunt at Manchester last night. In spite of the weather they had a splendid trip, lots of fun and as trophies of the fray brought home two bushy tails.

Governor Atkinson and acting Adjutant General Oscar J. Brown, of First U. S. Cavalry, were guests at the fox hunters' camp, coming all the way from Georgia to join in the chase.

The governor was unexpectedly called back to Georgia to consider the matter of a respite for two criminals who were to have been hung yesterday, but had the pleasure and satisfaction of witnessing one catch before leaving.

How to Prevent Accidental Fires.

1st. Keep the leaves swept from the valleys and gutters of your house—a spark may ignite them.

2nd. See that your flues are in safe and sound condition.

3d. Use metal vessels exclusively for taking up ashes and let them stand 24 hours before emptying, or empty on ground apart from any fence or building.

90 per cent. of dwelling house fires result from sparks on roof, defective flues, and taking up ashes in wooden vessels.

THE case of Mrs. Luetgert, according to the defense, was entirely one of "now you see her and now you don't."

THERE seems to be no end to the marvellous these days; a Chicago alderman has been found who is bribe-proof.

THE people of New Orleans seem to be impressd with the idea that fire, as well as frost, is a panacea for the yellow fever bacillus.

AND so it turns out that the band of armed Japs, who were pouring into Honolulu on every steamer, were only a figment of the jingo imagination.

WHILE the Beaneater and Oriole are battling for the baseball pennant, the play house will hardly be crowded with audiences to see General Weyler star in the great farce, "Pacification."

THE new Cuban tariff does not, unfortunately, place any export duty on General Weyler's announcements of victory and they will continue to reach us in the usual quality and quantity.

A member of the English parliament has written an article to prove that bread is a very unnecessary article; but then the M. P. hails from Ireland and is perhaps a devotee of the potato.

EX-CONGRESSMAN KILGORE, who died yesterday, had the distinction of being the only member of that body who ever successfully kicked against the rule of Thomas B. Reed. Thomas had the door of the Congressional Hall locked and Mr. Kilgore kicked it down.

IN the cat and dog affair of the governor and the Wilsons a great many people of the state may resign themselves to an unalloyed enjoyment of the scrap with the knowledge that their sympathies need not be tangled up with the "under dog," whichever way the matter ends.

THE frost, which is killing so much tobacco in Tennessee and Kentucky, should take steps at once to see that the credit for high prices of tobacco goes where it belongs. Dingley tariff rooters will proceed to place it at once in the list of benefits springing from that measure.

AFTER all, the day of rapid transit, the mingling of people from every section and the continual interchange of merchandise has its disadvantages; the railroad and steamboat are as sure and swift distributers of disease as they are of the products of the loom and farm. So complex have become the relations between all sections that the wonder, is not that yellow fever should be difficult to control, but that it should be possible to control it at all. When one considers that a single city, like New Orleans will, in one day, send something to every state, and nearly every city in the union, that is capable of being a bearer of the contagion, the sporadic cases of fever that appear in various places are easily understood.

JUDGING by the way in which the Gas Company has inconvenienced citizens and hampered traffic, quite unnecessarily, on South Elm, it manifestly labors under the impression that the street was made to order for its exclusive use. Or is it that its soul is torn with the desire to be classed as a bloated corporation? Come to think of it, why is it that Greensboro should still be using gas when incandescent electric lights are cheaper, safer, healthier and more convenient? Besides where they are used they do not necessitate digging a Suez canal dow the principal thoroughfare to repair pipes or put in new ones. An incandescent lighting company would be a paying investment from the first. We know towns of two thousand people that own and operate their own electric light plants; lights are furnished at a cost little greater than that of oil and yet the plants pay for themselves in a few years.

ABOUT BOOKS AND PERIODICALS.

Will Allen Dromgoole has written "The Heart of Old Hickory," a series of Tennessee tales.

***

Munsey's Magazine is to appear in England and will contain fifty pages devoted entirely to English matter.

***

Mrs. Burton Harrison has written a new novel of New York life, entitled "Good Americans," which will appear in the Century.

***

HENRY Norman, the London Chronicle's war correspondent, will contribute to the October Scribner's a special article on "The Wreck of Greece."

***

THE complete novel in the October Lippincott's is "A Knight of Philadelphia," by Joseph A. Altsheler. It is a lively tale of adventures during the War of Independence.

***

Readers of Mr. Fox's "Hell-fer-Sartin," and "The Kentuckians" will be interested in the announcement that he is at work upon another Kentucky story to be called "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come."

***

Madame Mary Darmesteter's "Life of Ernest Renan" will appear this autumn. Madame Darmesteter has been greatly helped in her labours, first by the late Madame Renan, and since her death by Madame Psichari, Renan's daughter.

***

Mark Twain's next book will be entitled "Following the Equator," instead of "The Surviving Innocent," as at first intended. The New York Critic states that it will co tain about 70 or 80 chapters, each one of which is headed with a new Pudd'nhead Wilson maxim.

***

HALL Caine has already begun work upon a new novel, according to the London Daily News. He is quoted as saying: "Though it may be years before it comes to be written, I have begun to work upon it. It will deal with the great drink question, and will involve an immense amount of study and preparation."

***

More than any other, the name of Opie Reade offends the traveling public on every train; the news boy thrusts Opie Reade's latest book into one's face, with a warm recommendation, such as he gives to Marie Corelli and Governor "Bob" Taylor. Reade's latest book, "Bolanyo," is insipid, and sadly lacking in action, humor and character.

***

H. G. Wells' "Invisible Man" tells with a delightful air of reality of the adventures of a man whose knowledge of science had enabled him to secure invisibility, while preserving his corporeal character—an important distinction from the invisible men of the fairy tales, all of whom lost their bodily form and could enter a room, if necessary, through the keyhole.

***

A serial poem by James Whitcomb Riley, which he calls "The Rubaiyat of Doc Sifers," will be printed in the November and December numbers of The Century. Mr. Riley has in his characteristic vain described a quaint and lovable Hoosier village doctor, giving anecdotes and descriptions of the doctor's ways and doings from the point of view of an old fellow-townsman.

***

OF the concluding romance of Emile Zola's trilogy—Lourdes, Rome, Paris—Mr. Vizetelly remarks in the Westminister Gazette: "Zola's 'Paris' will be slightly shorter than 'Lourdes' and will be divided into five books, each of five chapters. It will probably come as a surprise to the critics and readers of M. Zola's more recent works. It will be a genuine novel, with no dissertations and no digressions. From first to last it will be brimful of life and action, at the same time presenting a kaleidoscopic picture of all classes of the Parisian community at the end of the nineteenth century.

***

THE October numbers of those magazines that are out, show a decided improvement over last month. Harper's is an excellent issue in both matter and illustrating. The opening paper is a story "Spanish John," by William McLennan, that is so much in the style of Robert Louis Stevenson that it might easily be mistaken for the work of that wizard of the phrase. There are stories by John Kendrick Bangs, Frank R. Stockton, and the last installment of John Fox's subtle study in affinities, the "Kentuckians." John Vance Chenley contributes a quatrain which is quoted for the sake of the exquisite sake of the last line:

Daughter of beauty wait; the prize is won,
Whether you pluck love's blossoms, all or none,
Sleep's field is left, whence summer never goes,
But ever on the rose tree dreams the rose.

Those who like more solid material than poems and stories will find interesting articles on chemistry, railroads and the volcano of Kilauea.

John R. Webster, of Webster's Weekly, Reidsville, was in the city today.

Michael Schenck, of Oak Ridge, came in last night to spend Sunday in the city.

W. C. Dodson, a courteous and popular conductor of the C. F. & Y. V. road, has just ended his vacation, and went to Fayetteville this morning to resume his run.

Mr. N. R. Richardson of High Point who has been assisting Rev. W. S. Hays at Holt's Chpel, paid THE TELEGRAM a call this morning. He reported a most excellent meeting still in progress. He returns to his home this evening.

Gen. Matt. W. Ransom spent last night at the McAdoo, and went home today. He was returning from Blowing Rock, where Mrs. Ransom met with an accident a few days ago. In stepping from a carriage she sprained her ankle, which gave her a great deal of pain, but no serious result. The ex-senator is 71 years old, but scarcely looks it. His health is good, form erect, step elastic, and there is much good fighting in the gallant old Democratic warrior yet.

WHAT HE DIDN'T SAY.

Stewart Bros. Not Talking in the Absence of Their Counsel.

A Journal reporter called Moses Stewart this morning to know something about that $6000 worth of paper which belongs to the state, and which Mr. Guy V. Barnes came here this week to see about. Moses said his attorney was still out of town and he couldn't do any talking for publication.

The Journal man, however, is a mind reader, and here is what he saw on the mind of Mr. Stewart this morning:

Those Raleigh ducks have undertaken to put Stewart Bros. in a hole, and they had better saddle up their peartest nag if they count on pacing a mile every time we do.

Now, mind you, Moses didn't say that.—Winston Journal.

The music is on; let joy be unconfined.

BRIEF LOCAL MATTERS.

Cheese is the subject of Lindau's advertisement today.

Wharton won the tie game in the tennis series with Googenheimer.

Howard Gardner, the druggist talks about bay rum and rose water, in his ad today.

See Wharton & McAlister's ad for suggestions as to the way to prevent accidental fires.

There are ditches and bumps on South Elm, and the work of repairing gas pipes goes merrily on.

Read the church notices for tomorrow and make some minister's heart glad by your presence at services.

The hour for preaching in the evening at West Market Street Church has been changed from 8:15 to 7:45. Please note this fact.

Howard Gardner is justly proud of his fine, new sign on the corner. It is by Painter Bocrie, and is one of the prettiest in town.

The pride of the establishment at Richardson & Fariss' is a fine Angora kitten. It grows hair like a football player or a populist.

The football managers are beginning to hammer the raw material into shape for the team in earnest. All who need exercise are invited to turn out and help them.

The crushed brick, dirt and cinder, recently put on West Market street, between Eugene and Edgworth streets is being covered with a good coating of pulverized granite.

BLUE MOUNTAIN JOE'S SHOW.

Another Big Crowd in Attendance Last Night.

Blue Mountain Joe and company had the largest audience last night that they have had since their opening night. Another interesting program was presented which delighted the large audience. Last night the doctor introduced some of his famous Indian remedies, which have met with a large sale in every section of the country he has visited. For tonight's show a double bill is promised, presenting many new features never before presented in Greensboro. The orchestra will render for the first time the descriptive fantasia entitled the "Dance of the Goblins," with the following description: "Near 12 o'clock, midnight, the night birds, owls, crickets, etc., are heard, the steeple clock strikes the hour, the goblins assemble at the old church yard. They begin to dance until they are suddenly frightened away by the watchman's pistol, but after awhile return and dance livelier than ever before. The whistle of a passing steamboat on the river near at hand is heard, when the dance is resumed a second pistol shot scares them all away. The hurried music and weird effects describes them scattering in all directions." This fine piece of music has made a big hit everywhere it has been played and will doubtless be a great musical treat.

At tonight's show the prices will be: Adults, 20 cents; children under twelve 10 cents; standing room, 10 cents.

Doors open at 7. Performance commences at 8:15 p. m.

Fifth of the Series.

Tomorrow night, at 8:30 o'clock, in the First Presbyterian church, Dr. E. W. Smith will preach the fifth of a series of sermons on "Character." The public is cordially invited to be present.
